July 12-Henry M. Stanley and Dorothy Tennant.

July 12—Henry M. Stanley and Dorothy Tennant.

July 12 seems to be a particularly popular wedding day in spite of the fact that brides of today in this country would usually regard mid-July as rather warm weather for the ordeal of a church wedding. The list of bridegrooms for this day is rather motley.
Among them are Arthur Pierson, well-known American clergyman, Collis P. Huntington, millionaire; Isidor Strauss, millionaire merchant; Robert Chambers, popular novelist; Francis Hastings, well-known English nobleman and politician of the eighteenth century, and hale old King Henry VIII, who, according to one record, married Catherine Parr on this midsummer day. Emilio de Gogorza is best Known because six years ago today he became the second husband of Emma Eames.

Perhaps the name that figures most

Capt. Creawell Garlington, U. S. A. of Governors Island, attended Lieut, Dickson as best man.

The ushers were Cadet Duncan Hodges, of the Military Academy, at West Point, a brother of the bride Lieut, K. P. Diron, U. S. N., and Lieut, J. R. Webb.
Lieut, Dickson and his bride will pass their honeymoon at his old home, Mt. Vernon, Ill. Later he will resume his duties at New London, Conn., where Lieut, Dickson was assigned in the service of the navy. The bride was there with the raintend of one of the submarines now being built. lars a week without any raise since-she had been employed there. On this she had to support herself and her mother and two little sisters. In order to secure cheap rent in a decent neighborhood they lived far over in Brooklyn, and she spent three hours a day riding to and from work.

"I asked for a raise several times, but was always refused. A man in my place would have received from fifteen to twenty-five dollars a week as a matter of course. Living expenses have gone up terribly in the last year, and my sister has been very ill for weeks past. I simply could not get along. A always intended putting the money back, and I know it was criminal, but once I had started, I wanted to get even, and, besides, I have never been able to afford pretty clothes like other girls, yet Mr. F-told me if I could not dress better he would have to get some one clse, as it reflected on the office."
